OHIO CONSERVATION COMMISSIONER HIT BY STATE SPORTSMEN

Reinhart Under Fire At League Meeting In Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—Sportsmen's circles rocked and trembled today from a bitter and sensational attack launched last night against Conservation Commissioner Wm. H. Reinhart's stream-closing program at a meeting where order was maintained only with difficulty.

A dozen men were on their feet, demanding to be heard, after Reinhart made an unscheduled appearance at a meeting of the League of Ohio Sportsmen to defend himself and his entire program against charges by Lloyd Barr of Mansfield and two Dayton men, Harry Meenach and Adolf Long.

Meenach's accusation, "You're being led around by a lot of pygmies in public office," started the battle, and the declaration by Barr that "closing the streams is almost an admission of the failure of the hatchery system," whipped up the flames.

"Discrimination" against certain counties in the closing of 4,000 miles of central Ohio streams for two years, to be restocked with fish, was charged by Long. The present system of distributing funds was attacked by Barr, who charged that too much is being spent for salaries.

Just when the debate was hottest, further argument was averted by a parliamentary order closing discussion. Reinhart was to present his new program to sportsmen today, however, and it was expected that the opposition would break out anew.

"Why don't you men lay off me when I am trying to reorganize your conservation division?" Reinhart demanded in a fiery address following talks by Long, Barr and Meenach.

Several members arose to defend him. Some cheered and applauded when he promised that "if you'll let me alone, I'll put you on the right side of the ledger." Others, however, protested against his statement that business conditions now will not warrant the closing of factories which are filling streams with industrial pollution.

Armed with a table of figures, Barr gave a long talk on finances of the conservation division. "You're spending $1 for office hire, but only twenty-five cents for fish," he complained. "It is hardly fair when we get only $175,000 back out of $600,000 turned in. We expect some interest."

"A well known politician has said that the conservation division is the best piece of political machinery he has ever seen. In 1923 the conservationists had 175 employees and now we have 293."

"As for the stream closing, Richland County has only one unpolluted stream and it is closed from start to finish. A lot fewer licenses are going to be sold in the state this year as a result of the closing—that's something more to worry about."

Barr also charged that there was a small production of catfish at the Bucyrus hatchery, considering the facilities there.

In resolutions passed prior to last night's meeting, the league charged that "political interference" during the last two administrations has handicapped the conservation division's work.

Succeeding I. S. Myers of Akron, who served for fifteen years, Ray Lawrence of Youngstown was elected president. Myers being chosen president pro tem, M. L. Bangham of Cincinnati and Harry N. Katz of Columbus were named vice presidents.

HOOVER'S FINANCE CORPORATION BILL BECOMES LAW SOON

Passage, Is Expected; Creates Two Billion Dollar Fund

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—President Hoover's plan for extending aid to agriculture, commerce and industry, through a two-billion-dollar federal reconstruction finance corporation, awaited enactment today with congress about to approve the final compromise bill.

A friendly house and senate must ratify a conference report, ironing out all differences between the two branches. The bill then goes to the White House. Administration leaders hope the bill will become a law by tomorrow.

A board of directors will handle a $2,000,000,000 fund, available for loans to federal and state banks, trust companies, building and loan associations, insurance and mortgage loan companies, federal and joint stock land banks, agricultural and livestock credit corporations, credit unions and railroads. It will be managed by a board of directors, including Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Eugene Meyer, chairman of the federal reserve board, Paul Bestor, the farm loan commissioner, former vice president Charles G. Dawes and three other civilians to be named by the President.

The secretary of agriculture was given special authority to manage a separate $50,000,000 fund, which might be raised to $200,000,000, in extending loans to individual farmers, who cannot get crop loans from the banks. Preference in these loans must be given to farmers who suffered in 1931.

The bill also carried relief for depositors in closed banks. A special limitation of $200,000,000 was placed on these loans. The provision was intended solely to "furnish immediate relief for closed banks and their depositors" and that further legislation would be enacted.

A special section dealt with loans to railroads. It provided that interstate commerce commission must make the application in behalf of the railroad and only to aid in the temporary financing of construction work or to help a re-equipment. It included not only steam railroads but some 6,000 miles of electric roads, which operate under the commission's authority.

Another section gave the corporation authority to accept drafts and bills of exchange, as security for loans. For the exportation of agricultural or other products, the bill specifically excluded foreign bonds or other foreign security as collateral for loans.

The corporation will be supported by a $500,000,000 fund from the treasury and the power to issue a $1,500,000,000 in bonds or debentures. The treasury was authorized to purchase these bonds or debentures. The obligations will be tax exempt, except for federal surtaxes, estate, inheritance and gift taxes. The corporation must file quarterly reports with congress, detailing every loan.

While the conferees reported unanimous accord on all subjects, their views clashed violently in interpreting two sections—those relating to loans to closed banks and loans to farmers. Senator Walcott (R) of Connecticut, author of the senate bill, said the bill did not provide loans to insolvent banks and put a $500,000,000 limit on farmers' loans. Rep. Steagall (D) of Alabama, author of the house bill, said it would allow loans to insolvent banks and put a $200,000,000 maximum limit on farmers' loans.

The summit of Mt. Pleasant was called "Standing Stone" by Indians who inhabited this section years ago.

ASHES OF COUPLE SCATTERED TO WIND

LANCASTER, O., Jan. 21.—A death bed request had been fulfilled here today as the ashes of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gels of Dayton, were scattered to the winds from the summit of Mt. Pleasant, a historic place which gained fame in Emerson Bennett's story, "Forest Rose."

The strange rites were performed by Raymond Kinder of Lancaster, Mrs. Florence Grill of Dayton, a daughter of the deceased, brought the ashes here. Gels died in March 1927 while his wife died last October.

ELEPHANT TAKES HER LAST BOW

With the firing of a cannon by her three pachyderm companions in a circus military act, and the dropping of a floral wreath from a plane flown by Gordon Mougey, Jr., grandson of John G. Robinson, her owner, Tilley, the world's oldest performing elephant, went to her grave at Terrace Park, Cincinnati. Tilley was 120 years old and weighed 7,000 pounds. REVOLUTION FLARES IN SPAIN; SEIZE CITIES

MADRID, Jan. 21.—Long-smouldering dissatisfaction in the Catalonian area of Spain flared into open rebellion today.

Led by Syndicalists and Communists, revolutionaries took control of a wide area extending from Manresa to Berga, seizing the telephone lines.

"The situation is serious," a government official told International News Service, "but we are determined to crush it without delay."

Seizure of telephone communications cut the town of Navalles off from the outside world. Transport, her owner, Tilley, the world's oldest performing elephant, went to her grave at Terrace Park, Cincinnati. Tilley was 120 years old and weighed 7,000 pounds. Photo shows the lowering in huge grave.

SUICIDE PACT IS ACCEPTED AS SOLUTION OF MONEY TROUBLES

PIQUA, O., Jan. 21.—Once a famous race horse trainer, Richard "Dick" Shepherd, 65, lay dead today with two bullet wounds in the body while his 74-year-old housekeeper, Mrs. Lydia Swales hovered on the brink of death in a swoon of gas.

Police said it was the result of a suicide pact.

In other days, Shepherd and his housekeeper had lived well. Those were in Shepherd's heyday as a race horse trainer. There was romance, thrills and the exciting life of the race track.

But lately, since Shepherd retired from the race tracks six years ago, things had not gone so well. The money slipped away, little by little and finally there was none. Then too, this life of retirement was hard to take after having lived and loved the race track.

Mrs. Swales sympathized. She was old. And so, they decided to "end it all."

At least, that was the theory that police and friends of the aged couple advanced today.

Shepherd's lifeless bullet-perforated body was found this morning by Mrs. Swales son, William, who forced his way into the Shepherd home. His mother was lying unconscious on a bed. Gas poured out of open jets in the room that had all doors and windows closed.

A note, evidently written by Mrs. Swales, was found in the room. Nervously scribbled, it said that the writer had pulled the trigger of the shotgun accidentally after she had refused to comply with Shepherd's request to turn on the gas.

The note also mentioned that Shepherd had told her he had spent all his money and was "broke."

Apparently, the aged couple had planned a suicide pact for some time, authorities said, and had decided the best way to carry out the plan, for in the room was found a bottle of chloroform and also a rope that had been noosed and hung from the door.

SURRENDERS ON OLD CANADIAN CHARGE; WILL BE DEPORTED

"Monk" Fontaine To Face Conspiracy Accusation

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 21.—Harold "Monk" Fontaine, sought by the United States government as the man whose "outside work" resulted in the Leavenworth prison escape plot last month, will be deported as soon as possible, Orville G. Adams, Canadian immigration director here said today.

Released from Leavenworth last November after serving five years for smuggling aliens across the Detroit river into the United States, Fontaine immediately began operations to send guns and ammunition into the prison, American federal officers stated.

Fontaine surrendered here yesterday to a six year old charge of assaulting an officer. The offense carries a penalty of two years imprisonment under Canadian law, but the charge will be waived, Adams declared, to cooperate with the American governments investigation of the jail break.

The escape plot was planned by Fontaine and the seven convicts involved when he was at the prison, according to the American officers seeking Fontaine.

When Fontaine was released he purchased one half barrel of shoe polish from the same St. Louis dealer who supplies the prison. He had it shipped to Joliet, Ill., to "George H. Clark." Claiming the shipment at Joliet, Fontaine removed the shoe polish, substituting a shotgun, two revolvers, nitroglycerine dynamite and ammunition.

One of the seven prisoners then received a telegram stating "Your Aunt Emma's very ill," the code arranged as a signal for arrival of the guns and ammunition. Fontaine returned the shipment to St. Louis and then sent it under regular shoe polish markings to the penitentiary.

When the package arrived at the prison, it was admitted without inspection by guards.

ALLEGED OFFICERS USED GIRL DECOY

AKRON, O., Jan. 21.—Charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, Justice of the Peace John De Hoff, Springfield Twp. and J. D. De Hoff, private investigator today were held in jail here on the complaint of Sigle Cecil that the men used his 17-year-old daughter as a decoy in liquor arrests.

Judge L. S. Pardee ordered the arrest of the pair late yesterday during a habeas corpus hearing brought in behalf of Roy Moore, proprietor of Lake View Inn, Port Road, against Jochum Moore arrested Sunday by De Hoff on liquor charges.

Cecil told the court the justice and his aide were giving his daughter and his wife when she accompanied them on raids. The girl, Ethel Cecil, replied to the court that she "was learning to become an investigator."

BANDITS ASK HUGE RANSOM

PEIPING, Jan. 21.—Chinese bandits today demanded $200,000 ransom for the safe return of Charles Baker, American barge captain kidnapped from aboard his ship in the Yangtze River.

Simultaneously the American legation here issued a formal protest to the Nanjing Nationalist government and sent Vice-Consul Clubb to aid the United States Navy gunboat Ohau in its efforts to gain the American's release.

Although the meeting of the state central committee was primarily intended to fix the time, the place and the number of delegates and alternates to the state G. O. P. convention, the party leaders were also to cogitate on the serious problem of erasing the party's $40,000 deficit remaining from the last state campaign.

MISSING WITNESS IN MONNETT BURGLARY CASE NOW LOCATED

Reported as mysteriously missing for a week, Horace Thomas, farm laborer, regarded as the most important witness for the state in the prosecution of six men accused of the hold-up and robbery of the Charles Monnett home, south of Yellow Springs, November 29, has been located.

This disclosure was made by Sheriff John Baughn, who announced that Thomas, a cripple, was brought to his office by Monnett, who said he had found him at Springfield. Thomas explained to authorities that he had gone away to look after an inheritance tax matter and had been staying with a nephew in Springfield.

NO PICNIC WITHOUT LUNCH

That's Why Reparations Meet Is Off, Says Will Rogers; Chinese Too Trusting

LONDON, Jan. 21.—"There ain't gonna be any Lausanne conference and it don't require high powered diplomacy to figure that out."

"Didja ever see a picnic take place when the man with the luncheon basket didn't show up? Well, since Uncle Sam ain't shown up at Lausanne there ain't gonna be a picnic."

Thus, in homely vocabularies, did Will Rogers express to International News Service today, his slant on the proposed meeting of the world's dignitaries to settle reparations. He was waiting to meet his wife, who is coming here from New York.

"It's the wife's turn to direct the itinerary from now on," he declared. "I've been gallivantin' in the Far East. I don't know what the World War was about but the scrap in the Far East was the first war ever to be held over soy beans."

Well, Mongolia just ran out of Mongolians trying to conquer the Chinese, that's what would happen to the Japanese. What could they do with 30,000,000 men in Manchuria?"

"The trouble with the Chinese is that they been listenin' to missionaries sent out by Bishop Cannon's and Dean Inge's gang and to diplomats. The missionaries said, 'Trust the Lord' and the diplomats said, 'Trust the League of Nations.' But it seems like they both failed the Chinese."

DETECTIVE BEGINS INVESTIGATION OF LATE INFORMATION

Learn War Veterans Prompted Probe Of Sandusky Home

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—A detective, whose name was kept secret, temporarily took over the state senate's investigation of Ohio penitentiary today, and promptly injected mystery into the probe by starting out in pursuit of "what may be a scandal."

The detective was employed late yesterday and "given unbelievable new leads to run down," Chairman Roy J. Gillen (R) of Wellston told International News Service after the senate welfare investigating committee adjourned to meet Wednesday at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Sandusky for an inquiry there.

"We have just received some new letters and information about what may be a scandal," Senator Gillen said, "and we want it thoroughly investigated before we go any farther." He refused to divulge any other facts about the new hints.

Committee members adjourned after calling in reporters who "cover" the penitentiary and asking them to volunteer any information they may have about the prison which would be valuable to the investigators.

Most of the reporters, a census showed, stayed only a few minutes and told the committee they had little to offer.

Investigation of charges of "general mismanagement" by Commandant Perry L. Null and Mrs. Null, the matron, at the Sandusky institution, was first urged by the American Legion and the Spanish War Veterans, it was learned today.

Most of the charges are in the possession of Senator Joseph N. Ackerman (R) of Cleveland, secretary of the committee, who would not make them public.

"We especially feel there should be an investigation of food, and the care of the sick," State Adjutant John J. Saslavsky, of the Ohio American Legion, told International News Service.

"Many of the inmates also object because paroled prisoners from the Mansfield Reformatory are allowed to act as attendants at the home," Saslavsky said.

Welfare Director John McSweeney asked the committee to conduct the investigation after the American Legion had started an inquiry of its own, Saslavsky stated.

"We are cooperating with McSweeney," he added.

"I have never heard of any serious complaints made against Null," the adjutant asserted.

At least two days will be spent by the committee at the Sandusky home, and the investigators probably will not resume their penitentiary inquiry here until week after next, Senator Gillen said.

The delay necessary for the Sandusky investigation will postpone again the calling of Leona Marie and the care of the sick, State Adjutant John J. Saslavsky, of the Ohio American Legion, told International News Service.

APPEAL FOR FROGS

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—A plea for a closed season on frogs was before the League of Ohio Sportsmen here today.

Because there is no law to protect them, frogs have almost been exterminated in Ohio, members of the league charged.

The frogs' croak, once heard above the waters at Buckeye Lake and other resorts, has grown so faint that the frog must be placed on "the song bird list," league officials were advised.

REVOLUTION FLARES IN SPAIN; SEIZE CITIES

MADRID, Jan. 21.—Long-smouldering dissatisfaction in the Catalan area of Spain flared into open rebellion today.

Led by Syndicalists and Communists, revolutionaries took control of a wide area extending from Manresa to Berga, seizing the telephone lines.

"The situation is serious," a government official told International News Service, "but we are determined to crush it without delay."

Seizure of telephone communications cut the town of Navacelles off from the outside world. Transport-

SUICIDE PACT IS ACCEPTED AS SOLUTION OF MONEY TROUBLES

PIQUA, O., Jan. 21.—Once a famous race horse trainer, Richard "Dick" Shepherd, 65, lay dead today with two bullet wounds in the body while his 74-year-old housekeeper, Mrs. Lydia Swales hovered on the brink of death in a swoon of grief.

Police said it was the result of a suicide pact.

In other days, Shepherd and his housekeeper had lived well. Those were in Shepherd's heyday as a race horse trainer. There was romance, thrills and the exciting life of the race track.

But lately, since Shepherd retired from the race tracks six years ago, things had not gone so well. The money slipped away, little by little and finally there was none. Then too, this life of retirement was hard to take after having lived and loved the race track.

Mrs. Swales sympathized. She was old. And so, they decided to "end it all."

At least, that was the theory that police and friends of the aged couple advanced today.

Shepherd's lifeless bullet-perforated body was found this morning by Mrs. Swales son, William, who forced his way into the Shepherd home. His mother was lying unconscious on a bed. Gas poured out of open jets in the room that had all doors and windows closed.

A note, evidently written by Mrs. Swales, was found in the room. Nervously scribbled, it said that the writer had pulled the trigger of the shotgun accidentally after she had refused to comply with Shepherd's request to turn on the gas.

The note also mentioned that Shepherd had told her he had spent all his money and was "broke."

Apparently, the aged couple had planned a suicide pact for some time, authorities said, and had decided the best way to carry out the plan, for in the room was found a bottle of chloroform and also a rope that had been noosed and hung from the door.

Prosecutor L. E. Harvey said he was convinced the tragedy was the result of a suicide pact. He said, however, investigation would be continued. A constant vigil was maintained at the hospital in the hope that Mrs. Swales would recover sufficiently to reveal details of the event.

Hospital attaches, however, reported the woman's condition as grave.

SURRENDERS ON OLD CANADIAN CHARGE; WILL BE DEPORTED

"Monk" Fontaine To Face Conspiracy Accusation

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 21.—Harold "Monk" Fontaine, sought by the United States government as the man whose "outside work" resulted in the Leavenworth prison escape plot last month, will be deported as soon as possible, Orville G. Adams, Canadian immigration director here said today.

Released from Leavenworth last November after serving five years for smuggling aliens across the Detroit river into the United States, Fontaine immediately began operations to send guns and ammunition into the prison, American federal officers stated.

Fontaine surrendered here yesterday to a six year old charge of assaulting an officer. The offense carries a penalty of two years imprisonment under Canadian law, but the charge will be waived, Adams declared, to cooperate with the American governments investigation of the jail break.

The escape plot was planned by Fontaine and the seven convicts involved when he was at the prison, according to the American officers seeking Fontaine.

When Fontaine was released he purchased one half barrel of shoe polish from the same St. Louis dealer who supplies the prison. He had it shipped to Joliet, Ill., to "George H. Clark." Claiming the shipment at Joliet, Fontaine removed the shoe polish, substituting a shotgun, two revolvers, nitroglycerine dynamite and ammunition.

One of the seven prisoners then received a telegram stating "Your Aunt Emma's very ill," the code arranged as a signal for arrival of the guns and ammunition. Fontaine returned the shipment to St. Louis and then sent it under regular shoe polish markings to the penitentiary.

When the package arrived at the prison, it was admitted without inspection by guards.

ALLEGED OFFICERS USED GIRL DECOY

AKRON, O., Jan. 21.—Charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, Justice of the Peace John Jochum of Springfield Twp. and J. D. De Hoff, private investigator, today were held in jail here on the complaint of Sigle Cecil that the men used his 17-year-old daughter as a decoy in liquor arrests.

Judge L. S. Pades ordered the arrest of the pair late yesterday during a habeas corpus hearing brought in behalf of Roy Moore, proprietor of Lake View Inn, Portage Road, against Jochum. De Hoff was arrested Sunday by De Hoff on liquor charges.

Cecil told the court the justice and his aide were giving his daughter liquor when she accompanied them on raids. The girl, Ethel Cecil, replied to the court that she "was learning to become an investigator."

BANDITS ASK HUGE RANSOM

PEIPING, Jan. 21.—Chinese bandits today demanded $200,000 ransom for the safe return of Charles Baker, American barge captain kidnapped from aboard his ship in the Yangtze River.

Simultaneously the American legation here issued a formal protest to the Nanking Nationalist government and sent Vice-Consul Clubb to aid the United States Navy gunboat Ohau in its efforts to gain the American's release.

MISSING WITNESS IN MONNETT BURGLARY CASE NOW LOCATED

Reported as mysteriously missing for a week, Horace Thomas, farm laborer, regarded as the most important witness for the state in the prosecution of six men accused of the hold-up and robbery of the Charles Monnett home, south of Yellow Springs, November 20, has been located.

This disclosure was made by Sheriff John Baughn, who announced that Thomas, a cripple, was brought to his office by Monnett, who said he had found him at Springfield. Thomas explained to authorities that he had gone away to look after an inheritance tax matter and had been staying with a nephew in Springfield.

NO PICNIC WITHOUT LUNCH

That's Why Reparations Meet Is Off, Says Will Rogers; Chinese Too Trusting

LONDON, Jan. 21.—"There ain't gonna be any Lausanne conference and it don't require high powered diplomacy to figure that out."

"Didja ever see a picnic take place when the man with the luncheon basket didn't show up? Well, since Uncle Sam ain't shown up at Lausanne there ain't gonna be a picnic."

Thus, in homely vocabularies, did Will Rogers express to International News Service today, his slant on the proposed meeting of the world's dignitaries to settle reparations. He was waiting to meet his wife, who is coming here from New York.

"It's the wife's turn to direct the itinerary from now on," he declared. "I've been gallivantin' in the Far East. I don't know what the World War was about but the scrap in the Far East was the first war ever to be held over soy beans."

"There's no use worrying about the Japanese holding Manchuria. You know, I read history books about the Mongolians trying to conquer the Chinese. Well, Mongolia just ran out of Mongolians trying to conquer the Chinese, that's what would happen to the Japanese. What could they do with 30,000,000 men in Manchuria?"

"The trouble with the Chinese is that they been listenin' to missionaries sent out by Bishop Cannon's and Dean Inge's gang and to diplomats. The missionaries said, 'Trust the Lord' and the diplomats said, 'Trust the League of Nations.' But it seems like they both failed the Chinese."

DENVER MAN IS HELD CAPTIVE BY KIDNAPERS

Bandits Demanding $50,000 Ransom For Baker

DENVER, Jan. 21.—Identity of two armed bandits who kidnaped Benjamin P. Bower, 62-year-old manager of a Denver bakery, and demanded $50,000 ransom, remained as much a mystery today as it was Tuesday night when they entered his home and forced him to drive away with them in a stolen automobile.

Police admitted they were without a clue after thirty-six hours of the most intensive manhunt ever staged in Denver.

The automobile in which Bower was taken from his home was found last night abandoned on a road west of Denver. Fingerprints experts worked till midnight checking prints found on the car.

Mayor George Begole issued a proclamation calling on all citizens to aid in the search and offering $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of the kidnapers.

Bower was forced to leave his home Tuesday night by two men who told Mrs. Bower they would hold him for $50,000 ransom, which they expected Stephen Knight, wealthy president of the baking company which employs Bower to pay.

Throughout Wednesday detectives armed with machine guns, hand grenades and gas bombs, sat in cars outside the police station, ready to start at an instant's notice should the kidnapers be located. Every available patrolman was called in and all probable hideouts in the vicinity of Denver searched. Hundreds of "tips" poured into headquarters but were found to be without value.

Police were unable to trace a mysterious telephone call which came to the Bower home yesterday.

"Hello, this is the mob that's got your husband. Get that $50,000 ready," a gruff voice announced. "We'll call you later."

In the meantime Mrs. Bower was reported near collapse from worry and fear. Heavily armed guards kept ceaseless watch at the homes of Bower and Knight.

OHIO REPUBLICAN CHIEFS IN MEETING

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—Chief-ains of Ohio Republicanism gathered here today to lay the groundwork for the forthcoming political campaign.

Although the meeting of the state central committee was primarily intended to fix the time, the place and the number of delegates and alternates to the state G. O. P. convention, the party leaders were also to cogitate on the serious problem of erasing the party's $40,000 deficit resulting from the last state campaign.

APPEAL FOR FROGS

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—A plea for a closed season on frogs was before the League of Ohio Sportsmen here today.

Because there is no law to protect them, frogs have almost been exterminated in Ohio, members of the league charged. The frog's croak, once heard above the waters at Buckeye Lake and other resorts, has grown so faint that the frog must be placed on "the going bird list," league officials were advised.

MYSTERIOUS "3-X" LIKELY SUSPECT IN MURDER OF BECHTEL

Bloody Cloth Clew To Knife Slaying Of Church Worker

Copyright, 1932, by INS
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—A blood-stained piece of cloth, a possible murder telltale, today was found in a cache near where the slayer of Norman Bechtel, model young church worker, had abandoned the victim's automobile.

Authorities termed it the only clue of potential value uncovered since the body of Bechtel was found with eleven vicious knife wounds under a winter-berry tree in the vacant estate of Mrs. Thomas Stokes of Germantown. Police believed the murderer had wiped his crimson hands on the square of cloth after abandoning the sports model coupe in which Bechtel was stabbed to death.

The blood-marked cloth, still damp, was wrapped in a newspaper featuring a recent letter from "3-X," the mass murderer of Long Island, to Captain William H. Houghton, chief of the United States Secret Service Bureau in Philadelphia.

This wrapping suggested to police that the killing of Bechtel may have been perpetrated by the letter-writing maniac. The crime was similar in many ways to the 3-X murders in New York in which "3-X" had suddenly pounced on victims in automobiles along lonely roads and butchered them.

The letter from "3-X" to Captain Houghton rambled about the activities of Communists and referred to the Easton, Pa., bomb explosions which killed three men.

Captain Houghton today told International News Service he believed that "3-X" was a grim reality and was in the vicinity of Philadelphia.

"The 3-X" theory in connection with the Bechtel murder was also supported by relatives of the dead man who declared that the slayer must have been a maniac.

The automobile was found opposite an empty house in Philadelphia about five miles from the scene of the murder. The blood-stained cloth had been thrown into the basement of the empty house.

The automobile was splashed with blood on the side nearest the driving wheel, indicating that Bechtel had been knifed as he was driving.

TESTIMONY STARTS IN TRUNK MURDERS

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 21.—"Win some Winnie" Ruth Judd, frail ethereal daughter of a Darlington, Ind., preacher was to go into court today to face a jury of middle aged family men who will try her for the Phoenix "trunk murder."

Mrs. Judd is accused of shooting Agnes Ann Lerol, husky red-haired nurse and blonde Hedvig Samuelson, ultra-feminine invalid teacher, packing their bodies in trunks and taking them to Los Angeles.

DETECTIVE BEGINS INVESTIGATION OF LATE INFORMATION

Learn War Veterans Prompted Probe Of Sandusky Home

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—A detective, whose name was kept secret, temporarily took over the state senate's investigation of Ohio penitentiary today, and promptly injected mystery into the probe by starting out in pursuit of "what may be a scandal."

The detective was employed late yesterday and "given unbelievable new leads to run down," Chairman Roy J. Gillen (R) of Wellston told International News Service after the senate welfare investigating committee adjourned to meet Wednesday at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Sandusky for an inquiry there.

"We have just received some new letters and information about what may be a scandal," Senator Gillen said, "and we want it thoroughly investigated before we go any farther." He refused to divulge any other facts about the new hints.

Committee members adjourned after calling in reporters who "cover" the penitentiary and asking them to volunteer any information they may have about the prison which would be valuable to the investigators.

Most of the reporters, a census showed, stayed only a few minutes and told the committee they had little to offer.

Investigation of charges of "general mismanagement" by Commodore Perry L. Noll and Mrs. Noll, the matron at the Sandusky institution, was first urged by the American Legion and the Spanish War Veterans, it was learned today.

Most of the charges are in the possession of Senator Joseph N. Ackerman (R) of Cleveland, secretary of the committee, who would not make them public.

"We especially feel there should be an investigation of food, and the care of the sick," State Adjutant John J. Salasavsky, of the Ohio American Legion, told International News Service.

"Many of the inmates also object because paroled prisoners from the Mansfield Reformatory are allowed to act as attendants at the home," Salasavsky said.

Welfare Director John McSweeney asked the committee to conduct the investigation after the American Legion had started an inquiry of its own. Salasavsky stated, "We are cooperating with McSweeney," he added.

"I have never heard of any serious complaints made against Noll," the adjutant asserted.

At least two days will be spent by the committee at the Sandusky home, and the investigators probably will not resume their penitentiary inquiry here until week after next, Senator Gillen said.

The inquiry necessary for the Sandusky investigation will postpone again the calling of Leona Marie Esch, secretary of the Cleveland Association for Criminal Justice, who has promised to give the committee the name of a man who offered her $25,000 if she would assist in gaining a pardon for Alvin Karpis, Cleveland murderer, who later was freed.

Warden Preston E. Thomas will not be questioned, the committee has decided, until all the rumors about alleged brutality to prisoners have been tracked down.

LIMA POLICE WAR ON SLOT MACHINES

LIMA, O., Jan. 21.—Determined to free the city of gambling and other vice, police today started a campaign against "hot-shot" boards, slot machines, and other games of "chance" operated in pool rooms and cigar stores.

Issuing the clean-up order, John W. Cook, chief of police, emphatically declared that there would be no second warning. All violators will be arrested immediately and the devices confiscated.

Punch boards, operated in connection with baseball "pools" during the summer months, were regarded as the most popular form of gambling.

THE CHAPLIN TOUCH

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—What might have passed for a movie comedy plot twenty years ago was staged in real life here today.

Two bandits, riding a bicycle built for one, rode up to Mrs. Ida Schaefer who was returning from a bakery with a cake. One snatched her purse; the other took the cake. As they remounted their "gas-pipe steed" the second bandit turned and threw the cake full in the face of Mrs. Schaefer.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant. No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

PAIN EASED QUICKLY WITHOUT DRUGS

Comfort for sufferers from the pains of headache, neuralgia, sciatica, neuritis, backache, rheumatism, strains, tired feet, stiffness.

Chest colds broken up. The greatest thing in the world to quiet the above aches and pains and to break up chest colds without taking drugs is Baume Bengé (called Ben-Gay in English). Your doctor will tell you so. Your druggist will tell you so and so will one hundred million people who have used it.

Baume Bengé (Ben-Gay) is made out of simple things which cannot harm the tender skin of a baby. You can and should rub plenty of Baume Bengé on the spot that hurts. Rub it in freely and deeply so it sinks down to the aching and painful nerve ends and soothes them. Rubbing in is unsafe with many pain killers, because they may be made out of turpentine, red pepper, chloroform, ether, etc., which may burn and blister the skin.

But don't be absent-minded and just ask your druggist for "something for aches and pains". Ask your druggist for Ben-Gay by name. Look for the name Baume Bengé on the package (called Ben-Gay in English). Refuse the unfair offer of something just as good, which may blister your skin if you rub it in. Ask your druggist for Ben-Gay by name and insist that you get it.

Farm Notes

HOME ACCOUNT RECORDS By keeping home account records, rural homemakers may find ways of cutting food, clothing and other costs, according to Miss Thelma Beall, home management specialist of the department of home economics of Ohio State University.

Recording family expenditures, she says, is a simple, quickly performed task that will enable the homemaker to see just where her money goes and the value she had received for some of her purchases. Such accounts enable the homemaker to plan her expenditures and to analyze costs in relation to income.

A simple form may be used on which to record the various expenditures. This may consist of a number of columns headed by such items as clothing, food, insurance and savings, health, education, recreation, fuel, etc.

However, the record of cash expenditures of the farm family gives only partial picture of the value of the living. It is also necessary to know the value of the farm products used, such as food, fuel, and ice. Each day as vegetables are brought in from the garden, their weight and estimated value should be recorded. To simplify this, it is a good idea to have a small household scale with a scoop for holding things to be weighed.

Ten minutes a day should keep the accounts up-to-date, so that at the end of the month the totals can be found in a few hours. Miss Beall is to be at the Xenia Post Office Building at 1:00 o'clock January 23 to explain to Greene County the use of the free Household Account Book. Every woman who is interested is invited to attend this meeting. This service comes to you through the Home Economics Extension Department with Ruth Radford, Home Demonstration Agent.

NOW SHE LAUGHS AT WASHDAY —by C.A. Voight

Try this safe, hard-water soap for whiter washes—brighter colors

JUST imagine clothes getting white and clean without scrubbing them bright and fresh without danger of the colors running. No wonder millions of women have given up old-fashioned washday methods. No wonder new thousands are turning every week to the modern "no-work" soap—Rinso. Clothes soak so clean in Rinso, scrubbing is unnecessary. It's the suds that do it—thick, creamy, lasting. Twice as much suds, cup for cup, as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. The makers of 40 famous washers recommend Rinso. Great for dishwashing, too. Grease goes—dishes shine. Get the BIG package.

Millions use Rinso in tub, washer and dishpan

"I don't mind your bristles Rex"

"MAYBE you're lucky, Rex boy. Your whiskers are cute, so you never need to shave. But there's a big difference between bristles on a dog and bristles on a man. Of course you don't enjoy being plucked, but that only happens once every few months and a man must shave every day and sometimes twice a day to look well. And I understand shaving is no joke. Many men seem to use this as an excuse for neglect. I'm sure they'd shave more often and more carefully if they knew how repulsive stubble is to most girls."

Most men, we feel, do realize that a growth of stubble, however slight, is repulsive to women. Bristles, in fact, are a drawback in every business and social contact. In the past men could possibly be excused for their neglect because razor pull and burn made shaving a distinctly unpleasant chore. Today

Gillette offers the new Blue Super-Blade that removes the beard cleanly, entirely without discomfort.

Try it, and you'll agree with us that shaving can be a rather pleasant performance. Your razor fairly skims across your face, mowing down wiry beard as if it were boyish down. Prove this on our guarantee. Buy a package of Blue Blades and use a couple. If every shave doesn't measure up to your expectations, return the package to your dealer and he'll refund the purchase price.

ZOO IS SAVED

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 21.—The Cincinnati Zoological gardens, a historical site and one frequently visited by tourists, received a new lease on life today. The issuance of $225,000 in bonds for purchase of the Zoo has been voted by the city council, thus dispensing with a threatened auction sale.

RADIO CLUB ROBBED

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—Ohio State University's Radio Club was depleted today following the theft of $410 worth of equipment Wednesday night. By forcing a window, burglars escaped with tubes, speakers, transmitting apparatus, and complete receiving sets. Club officials said a truck was necessary to move the loot.

WHEAT IS KING

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Wheat soup, wheat fritters, wheat muffins and wheat coffee are among the items on the menu of an experimental wheat dinner being planned today by the Chicago Congregational Union. Each meal will cost three and one half cents and all of the 125 guests will be dined at a total outlay of $437.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The rich man is wise in his own conceit; but the poor that hath understanding searcheth him out.—Proverbs, xxviii, 11.

ENFORCEMENT NEEDED

In Honolulu, the Hawaiian legislature is considering the enactment of a law that will make an attack upon a woman a capital crime. A person who offers violence to a woman should suffer severe penalty whether he is guilty of his misdeed in Hawaii, or in any country. The weak leniency shown rapists in these days is a reproach to our civilization, and is one of the evidences of its degeneracy.

But it also is true that as far as Hawaii is concerned the deplorable conditions which have grown up there are not the result of insufficient law nearly as much as they are the result of insufficient law enforcement. If the people, the courts and the authorities in the islands generally, and in Honolulu particularly, had been doing their duty as protectors of the public against crime and lawlessness, the disgraceful record of the capital city in the last few months would never have been written.

It will be of little use for the Hawaiian Legislature to pass new laws, unless at the same time the territorial officials take measures to see that the laws already on the books are more than so much ink on printed pages. The insular authorities seem to have become as lax, as inefficient and sluggish as those in parts of Continental United States. And if we may depend on reports, some of the recent court proceedings in Hawaii have been comparable with the more demagogically managed ones in this country.

Other Editorial Thoughts

ROBERT E. LEE

One hundred twenty-five years ago, January 19, General Robert E. Lee, son of "Light-Horse Harry" Lee of revolutionary fame, was born at Stratford, Virginia. He was the greatest Confederate general, ranked as one of the world's great military commanders, and will pass into history as a great American.

There is a phase of Lee's character which is not generally considered, and that is the great mental struggle he passed through when it became necessary for him to choose between the Union and his native state.

Lee was not a rabid secessionist, because he had been trained from early life to think nationally, yet he lived in a period when the theories of state's rights were dominant political issues. Having inherited his military instinct from his illustrious father, he chose the army as his profession and graduated from West Point. He served with distinction in the Mexican war under General Winfield Scott. When the Virginia convention adopted the ordinance of secession, Lee was forced to choose between the Union and his state. After a severe mental struggle, he chose the latter, and in making the choice his mental attitude is well expressed in a letter which he wrote his sister: "We are in a state of war which will yield to nothing. The whole South is in a state of revolution into which Virginia, after a long struggle, has been drawn, and though I recognize no necessity for this state of things, yet in my own person I had to meet the question, whether I should take part against my native state. With all my devotion to the Union, and the feeling of loyalty and duty of an American citizen, I have not been able to make up my mind to raise my hand against my relatives, my children, my home. I have, therefore, resigned my commission in the army, and save in defense of my native state, I hope I may never be called on to draw my sword."

Such a momentous decision is not the lot of many men. It is not often that one is compelled to choose between love of country and love of friends at home. Those who uphold the righteousness of the Union cause in the war do not question the purity of his motives in taking the other side. He had not sought war, nor had he felt the alleged causes justified the conflict. Thoroughly unselfish, a devoted Christian, he not only remains a sacred memory to many Americans, but he won the respect and admiration of the world.—Zanesville Signal.

Lakes Pictured As Stimulant

By WILBER M. BRUCKER

Governor of Michigan
(Wilbur Marion Brucker was born at Saginaw, Mich., June 13, 1894. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan. He began practicing law at Saginaw in 1919. From 1923 to 1927 he was assistant prosecuting attorney of Saginaw county. He then became assistant attorney general of Michigan, and was named attorney general in 1928, the next year. In 1930 he was elected governor of Michigan. He is a Republican and a World war veteran.)

Nothing would strike the present sluggish economic situation with more dynamic impact right at this moment than the completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway. It would act as an economic blood transfusion to renew circulation in the body-politic. It would not only be a psychic stimulant, but would invigorate the whole of North America as well by the establishment of new world trade routes. It would furnish the element of physical improvement which would literally compel the kind of confidence that commands prosperity. To Michigan and some of her sister states the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence completion means more than any government undertaking ever before proposed in this country's history.

For decades now, men of vision on both sides of the international boundary line have dreamed of the completion of this great highway of commerce down the St. Lawrence to the Atlantic.

They have envisioned ports of the Great Lakes being opened to vessels of all nations, making it possible for the commerce of the Great Lakes and all that vast territory commercially tributary, to be carried to ports of the world. They have followed their belief through all its successful engineering phases, with the resultant knowledge that the commerce of the Great Lakes region may be carried in American bottoms without transshipment to all parts of the world.

They have been undaunted throughout the maze of diplomatic negotiations until today as congress prepares to formulate an enabling treaty with Canada, they have come to the period of realization that the Atlantic state of more than 2,000 miles inland to make ocean ports of Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee, Duluth, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo and countless others, and that 87 per cent of all ocean-going ships will be able to drop anchor in the ports of the Great Lakes and the connecting waters.

The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence is the largest connected body of fresh water on the globe. Its combined area exceeds 90,000 square miles from Duluth to tidewater at Montreal. Twenty-two states of the union are commercially tributary to it, in addition to its great Canadian interest. The short line of the Great Lakes and islands exceeds 6,000 miles, or which 2,200 miles are within the state of Michigan. The Great Lakes constitute the greatest highway of waterborne commerce except the high seas in the world.

Without the St. Lawrence river development a normal year sees 220,000,000 tons of commerce, worth $1,500,000,000 moved to market by water transportation on the Great Lakes. The commerce carried on the Great Lakes exceeds by 50,000,000 tons annually the total coastwise commerce of the United States carried on the oceans. Thirteen and eight-tenths per cent of the total foreign commerce of the United States is carried on over the Great Lakes.

NEW YORK — What few New Yorkers know:

That Hugh Connell, the nut-cracking "Dr. Lewis," of "Once in a Lifetime," carried his realism so far on the stage that he has recently completed a stay in bed as a result of consuming bushels of pistachio nuts during the play's run.

That the slang word, "mug," now so common, was in general use in England as far back as the fifteenth century. It meant then a low fellow, addicted to tipping beer. (Hence, mug, from beer-mug).

That those who have seen the play and the movie, "Five Star Final," by Louis Weitzenkorn, will be amazed and engrossed by the short story "Hot Copy," by M. C. Blackman, which appeared in Harpers several years ago and in the O. Henry Memorial Award Prize Stories of 1928.

That there is any number of garages here which undertake to estimate closely how many more miles you can drive your car before it falls to pieces; the inspection time being about three hours and the cost, usually, $5.

That E. H. Harriman, the railroad magnate, had 100 telephones in his town house.

That one of the most engaging sights round about is the spectacle of dusky Harlemites in caps and sweaters, cutting figures like Norwegian professionals, on the ice of the Harlem river; and that it is untrue that Negroes suffer from the cold any more than whites.

That jewelers report an increasing boom in the wedding ring market over the past fifty years, because, whereas one ring used to be all a man bought in a lifetime, he may now need three or four.

That half a dozen other vegetables and as many kinds of fruit are just as good for children as spinach—and far more palatable.

That the Metropolitan Opera House is going to be renovated and dressed up for next season, although plans are to cut the season down from twenty-four weeks to eighteen.

That at one of the downtown burlesque houses, once a week, the prima donna auctions off her costume, delivering articles sold on the spot.

That the "Safety First Museum" here contains models of all known catastrophes.

That the faculties of a number of colleges are having trouble with student editors of humorous publications, who are aping the ultra-broad jesting of the professional journals recently placed on sale throughout the land.

That the Chatham Square elevated station contains a large printed notice beginning: "ATTENTION! AFTER JANUARY 1, 1931"—etc.

That Jack Laity took off the New Year's week-end to write his new book, "Beast of the City."

THE GUESSING CONTEST

RETIREMENT OF HOLMES EMPHASIZES IMPORTANCE OF COURT'S PERSONNEL

—CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. —Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes' retirement has served as an even more emphatic reminder than the deaths of Chief Justice Taft or Justice Edward Terry Sanford, in recent years, of the importance of the federal supreme court's personnel to the country.

In the advanced independence of his opinions Justice Holmes has not, indeed, surpassed Justice Louis D. Brandeis—perhaps has hardly equaled him. Nevertheless, the old New Englander's popular rating unquestionably has been that of the high court's premier liberal—partly, it may be, because of a more compelling personality than the self-effacing one of Justice Brandeis; doubtless, because of his tremendous length of service on the supreme bench.

It is no small thing to have sat for 30 years in the supreme court of the United States, and remained a liberal.

No more conservative atmosphere can well be imagined.

Somehow Justice Holmes got into the supreme court cloister, a liberal.

A decade and a half later Justice Brandeis entered it, also a liberal. Entering it later than Justice Holmes, and a measure of human progress having been made in the meantime, he entered it a more decided liberal than Justice Holmes. The entrance of Justice Brandeis was not so easy as that of Justice Holmes.

Conservatism probably was as strong against Justice Holmes' entrance as it subsequently was against Justice Brandeis'. But Justice Holmes was an appointee of President Roosevelt, who, with small ceremony, overrode all opposition to his own wishes. President Wilson encountered furious objections to his nomination of Justice Brandeis, and for four months its confirmation hung uncertainly in the balance in the United States senate. But President Wilson, also, was stubborn; finally the portal opened again momentarily and immediately closed upon Louis D. Brandeis.

Conservatism generally is more successful than it chanced to be in the cases of Justice Holmes and Brandeis.

A congressional session or two ago, during the fight against Judge John J. Parker's confirmation for a seat among the nine great interpreters of the constitution, Senator Robert B. Howell of Nebraska assured me:

"There never is a snap judgment in the selection of a supreme court justice.

"To be sure, no choice seems to be made until a vacancy exists.

"However, when a man is needed, believe me, the conservatives already have one picked and waiting.

"And he is a good man—a fine lawyer; honest and able.

"But he THINKS right—as conservatism understands sound thinking."

A man who has died and gone to heaven is no more difficult of access than one who has vanished into the supreme court. It simply is blasphemy to try to interview him.

It is no trick at all to gain access to the average senator—much less to the average representative. Cabinet members receive the correspondents daily. The president himself has a "press conference" twice a week.

But undertake to get one word for publication—if it's only about

"Who ARE You?"
You Can't Answer
Because You Are Always Changing

By MARSHALL MASLIN
Somebody asks: "Who are you?" It's not an easy question to answer. It's true that you can give your name and your address and your telephone number and your age and your sex and your occupation, but who do these statistics explain just who you are?

You are a pendulum that swings back and forth from joy to grief, from peace to pain, from energy to boredom, from wisdom to ignorance, and from hope to despair. I ask you, "Who are you?" and you might wisely answer, "When do you mean? I have many emotions, many dispositions, many moods. I think various thoughts at various times. I am always changing."

Sometimes you think: Money is the most important thing in the world. It sets us free to travel, to live comfortably, to be our real selves. There is no real freedom without money.

But you see a rich man who is most unhappy and you think: Money isn't important. It does not bring happiness. It does more harm than good. The less money the better for humanity.

Lazyly you think: Work is a curse. I wish I didn't have to toil. I wish I lived in the South Seas, where the breadfruit falls into your hands and the coconuts break as they fall, and the fish swim right into your hands and ask to be fried.

Gathering energy, you reflect: Work is a man's salvation. The man who has no work is a lost soul. There is no happiness without work. Pity the poor creature who has nothing to do.

Bitter, you reflect on humanity: Men are selfish, women are vain. Nobody cares what happens to you. When you're young, you are foolish. When you are old, you are dull. Trust nobody.

Wiser, you think: People are good. At the heart of every man is sweetness and strength. Men and women are all trying to be better, to be kinder, to be wiser. If we had more understanding in us, we would reverence our fellows more.

When you are dull or bitter or despairing, you are one person. When you are interested, friendly and hopeful, you are somebody else. And one of you is a miserable failure, and one is a time success.

You know which one!

Budgets For The Entire Family

By MRS. MARY MORTON

The real running cost per mile of the family car is easily found, for the purpose of compiling your expenditures for the family budget, by dividing the year's total cost for all the items of operation and care, insurance, license plates, etc., by the total mileage of the year.

As the running cost of a car will differ but little, whether one person or five ride in it, it is obviously economical for a family to use this means of transportation, especially for long or roundabout trips. But remember that in estimating the cost of a journey the real running cost includes "overhead" as well as cash expended en route. "Overhead" means the expense of putting the car in good condition before and after the trip. The government allows its employees who use their own cars for government business, seven cents a mile for depreciation.

Wise parents, whose older children use the family car, see that they understand about this overhead cost and who eventually pays for it. It is a good plan to check abuse of privilege by requiring that at least gas, oil and necessary repairs due to their use of the automobile should be met out of their pocket allowance.

It is common practice to buy cars on the installment or deferred payment plan. Sometimes by paying all cash substantial savings can be made because monthly payments include both interest and financing charges. It would be well, if you consider buying a car, to look into this point. The family that requires an automobile year after year might save a regular monthly sum toward the purchase of the car and so have the cash ready when the time to change to a new model has elapsed.

How Infections Cause Brittle Nails

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A gentleman writes me about his little boy and draws the following picture:

"The nails are rough and break easily, never growing clear out to the tips of the fingers. It looks as if he were in the habit of biting his nails, but this he does not do."

There are several possible causes for this condition. One is infection of the nail beds with the ordinary germs which produce pus. In this case the root of the nail is likely to be red and swollen and painful.

A far commoner cause, and one which is seldom suspected, is ringworm infection of the nail bed. Infection, that is, by one of the same group of organisms that causes what is known as "Athlete's foot."

"The practitioner will be wise if he suspects ringworm whenever he encounters abnormal nails," says a learned dermatologist.

A person who offers violence to a woman should suffer severe penalty whether he is guilty of his misdeed in Hawaii, or in any country. The weak leniency shown rapists in these days is a reproach to our civilization, and is one of the evidences of its degeneracy.

But it also is true that as far as Hawaii is concerned the deplorable conditions which have grown up there are not the result of insufficient law nearly as much as they are the result of insufficient law enforcement. If the people, the courts and the authorities in the islands generally, and in Honolulu particularly, had been doing their duty as protectors of the public against crime and lawlessness, the disgraceful record of the capital city in the last few months would never have been written. It will be of little use for the Hawaiian Legislature to pass new laws, unless at the same time the territorial officials take measures to see that the laws already on the books are more than so much ink on printed pages. The insular authorities seem to have become as lax, as inefficient and sluggish as those in parts of Continental United States. And if we may depend on reports, some of the recent court proceedings in Hawaii have been comparable with the more demagogically managed ones in this country.

Other Editorial Thoughts

ROBERT E. LEE

One hundred twenty-five years ago, January 19, General Robert E. Lee, son of "Light-Horse Harry" Lee of revolutionary fame, was born at Stratford, Virginia. He was the greatest Confederate general, ranked as one of the world's great military commanders, and will pass into history as a great American.

There is a phase of Lee's character which is not generally considered, and that is the great mental struggle he passed through when it became necessary for him to choose between the Union and his native state.

Lee was not a rabid secessionist, because he had been trained from early life to think nationally, yet he lived in a period when the theories of state's rights were dominant political issues. Having inherited his military instinct from his illustrious father, he chose the army as his profession and graduated from West Point. He served with distinction in the Mexican war under General Winfield Scott. When the Virginia convention adopted the ordinance of secession, Lee was forced to choose between the Union and his state. After a severe mental struggle, he chose the latter, and in making the choice his mental attitude is well expressed in a letter which he wrote his sister: "We are in a state of war which will yield to nothing. The whole South is in a state of revolution into which Virginia, after a long struggle, has been drawn, and though I recognize no necessity for this state of things, yet in my own person I had to meet the question, whether I should take part against my native state. With all my devotion to the Union, and the feeling of loyalty and duty of an American citizen, I have not been able to make up my mind to raise my hand against my relatives, my children, my home. I have, therefore, resigned my commission in the army, and save in defense of my native state, I hope I may never be called on to draw my sword."

Such a momentous decision is not the lot of many men. It is not often that one is compelled to choose between love of country and love of friends at home. Those who uphold the righteousness of the Union cause in the war do not question the purity of his motives in taking the other side. He had not sought war, nor had he felt the alleged excuses justified the conflict. Thoroughly unselfish, a devoted Christian, he not only remains a sacred memory to many Americans, but he won the respect and admiration of the world.—Zanesville Signal.

Lakes Pictured As Stimulant

By WILBER M. BRUCKER

Governor of Michigan
(Wilber Marion Brucker was born at Saginaw, Mich., June 13, 1894. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan. He began practicing law at Saginaw in 1919. From 1923 to 1927 he was assistant prosecuting attorney of Saginaw county. He then became assistant attorney general of Michigan, and was named attorney general in 1928, the next year. In 1930 he was elected governor of Michigan. He is a Republican and a World War veteran.)

Nothing would strike the present sluggish economic situation with more dynamic impact right at this moment than the completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway. It would act as an economic blood transfusion to renew circulation in the body-politic. It would not only be a psychic stimulant, but would invigorate the whole of North America as well by the establishment of new world trade routes. It would furnish the element of physical improvement which would literally compel the kind of confidence that commands prosperity. To Michigan and some of her sister states the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence completion means more than any development ever proposed in this country's history.

For decades now, men of vision on both sides of the international boundary line have dreamed of the completion of this great highway of commerce down the St. Lawrence to the Atlantic. They have envisioned ports of the Great Lakes being opened to vessels of all nations, making it possible for the commerce of the Great Lakes and all that vast territory commercially tributary, to be carried to ports of the world. They have followed their belief through all its successful engineering phases, with the resultant knowledge that the commerce of the Great Lakes region may be carried in American bottoms without transshipment to all parts of the world.

They have been undaunted throughout the maze of diplomatic negotiations until today as congress prepares to formulate an enabling treaty with Canada, they have come to the period of realization that the Atlantic can be moved 2,000 miles inland to make ocean ports of Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee, Duluth, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo and countless others, and that 87 per cent of all ocean-going ships will be able to drop anchor in the ports of the Great Lakes and the connecting waters.

The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence is the largest connected body of fresh water on the globe. Its combined area exceeds 90,000 square miles from Duluth to tidewater at Montreal. Twenty-two states of the union are commercially tributary to it, in addition to its great Canadian interest. The short line of the Great Lakes and islands exceeds 8,000 miles, or which 2,200 miles are within the state of Michigan. The Great Lakes constitute the greatest highway of waterborne commerce except the high seas in the world.

Without the St. Lawrence river development a normal year sees 220,000,000 tons of commerce, worth $1,500,000,000 moved to market by water transportation on the Great Lakes. The commerce carried on the Great Lakes exceeds by 50,000,000 tons annually the total coastwise commerce of the United States carried on the oceans.

Thirteen and eight-tenths per cent of the total foreign commerce of the United States is carried on over the Great Lakes. The great railway systems of Canada and the United States are so constructed as best to handle this immense interstate and international commerce, by transshipment.

WASHINGTON.—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes' retirement has served as an even more emphatic reminder than the deaths of Chief Justice Taft or Justice Edward Terry Sanford, in recent years, of the importance of the federal supreme court's personnel to the country.

In the advanced independence of his opinions Justice Holmes has not, indeed, surpassed Justice Louis D. Brandeis—perhaps has hardly equaled him. Nevertheless, the old New Englander's popular rating unquestionably has been that of the high court's premier liberal—partly, it may be, because of a more compelling personality than the self-effacingness of Justice Brandeis; doubtless, because of his tremendous length of service on the supreme bench.

It is no small thing to have sat for 30 years in the supreme court of the United States, and remained a liberal.

No more conservative atmosphere can well be imagined.

Somewhat Justice Holmes got into the supreme court cloister, a liberal. A decade and a half later Justice Brandeis entered it, also a liberal. Entering it later than Justice Holmes, and a measure of human progress having been made in the meantime, he entered it a more cordial liberal than Justice Holmes.

The entrance of Justice Brandeis was not so easy as that of Justice Holmes. Conservatism probably was as strongly against Justice Holmes' entrance as it subsequently was against Justice Brandeis', but Justice Holmes was an appointee of President Roosevelt, who, with small ceremony, overrode all opposition to his own wishes. President Wilson encountered furious objections to his nomination of Justice Brandeis, and for four months its confirmation hung uncertainly in the balance in the United States senate. But President Wilson, also, was stubborn; finally the portal opened again momentarily and immediately closed upon Louis D. Brandeis.

Conservatism generally is more successful than it chanced to be in the cases of Justice Holmes and Brandeis.

A congressional session or two ago, during the fight against Judge John J. Parker's confirmation for a seat among the nine great interpreters of the constitution, Senator Robert B. Howell of Nebraska assured me:

"There never is a snap judgment in the selection of a supreme court justice."

"To be sure, no choice seems to be made until a vacancy exists."

"However, when a man is needed, believe me, the conservatives already have one picked and waiting."

"And he is a good man—a fine lawyer; honest and able."

"But he THINKS right—as conservatism understands sound thinking."

A man who has died and gone to heaven is no more difficult of access than one who has vanished into the supreme court. It simply is blasphemy to try to interview him. It is no trick at all to gain access to the average senator—much less to the average representative. Cabinet members receive the correspondents daily. The president himself has a "press conference" twice a week.

But undertake to get one word for publication—if it's only about

"Who ARE You?"
You Can't Answer
Because You Are Always Changing

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Sombody asks: "Who are you?" It's not an easy question to answer. It's true that you can give your name and your address and your telephone number and your age and your sex and your occupation, but do these statistics explain just who you are?

You are a pendulum that swings back and forth from joy to grief, from peace to pain, from energy to boredom, from wisdom to ignorance, and from hope to despair. I ask you, "Who are you?" and you might wisely answer, "When do you mean? I have many emotions, many dispositions, many moods. I think various thoughts at various times. I am always changing."

Sometimes you think: Money is the most important thing in the world. It sets us free to travel, to live comfortably, to be our real selves. There is no real freedom without money.

But you see a rich man who is most unhappy and you think: Money isn't important. It does not bring happiness. It does more harm than good. The less money the better for humanity.

When you are dull or bitter or despairing, you are one person. When you are interested, friendly and hopeful, you are somebody else. And one of you is a miserable failure, and one is a fine success.

You know which one!

Budgets For The Entire Family

By MRS. MARY MORTON

The real running cost per mile of the family car is easily found, for the purpose of compiling your expenditures for the family budget, by dividing the year's total cost for all the items of operation and care, insurance, license plates, etc., by the total mileage of the year.

As the running cost of a car will differ but little, whether one person or five ride in it, it is obviously economical for a family to use this means of transportation, especially for long or roundabout trips. But remember that in estimating the cost of a journey the real running cost includes "overhead" as well as cash expended en route. "Overhead" means the expense of putting the car in good condition before and after the trip. The government allows its employees who use their own cars for government business, seven cents a mile for depreciation.

Wise parents, whose older children use the family car, see that they understand about this overhead cost and who eventually pay for it. It is a good plan to check abuse of privilege by requiring that at least gas, oil and necessary repairs due to their use of the automobile should be met out of their pocket allowance.

It is common practice to buy cars on the instalment or deferred payment plan. Sometimes by paying all cash substantial savings can be made because monthly payments include both interest and financing charges. It would be well, if you consider buying a car, to look into this point. The family that requires an automobile year after year might set aside a regular monthly sum toward the purchase of the car and so have the cash ready when the time to change to a new model has elapsed.

More Humidity Needed

If your piano suddenly changed its tone when you turned on the heat for the winter, don't blame the man who tuned it. The change may have been due to a lack of water vapor in the air. Since air at a temperature of 72 degrees Fahrenheit can hold sixteen times as much moisture as air at zero, winter air contains far less moisture than summer.

For Better Scrubbing

Move the scrubbing brush up and down with the grain of the wood, not across it. Cold water is better for scrubbing wooden floors, as it does not soak into the wood as quickly as hot, and the floors dry sooner.

How Infections Cause Brittle Nails

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A gentleman writes me about his little boy and draws the following picture:

"The nails are rough and break easily, never growing clear out to the tips of the fingers. It looks as if he were in the habit of biting his nails, but this he does not do."

There are several possible causes for this condition. One is infection of the nail beds with the ordinary germs which produce pus. In this case the root of the nail is likely to be red and swollen and painful.

A far commoner cause, and one which is seldom suspected, is ringworm infection of the nail bed. Infection, that is, by one of the same group of organisms that causes what is known as "Athlete's foot."

"The practitioner will be wise if he suspects ringworm whenever he encounters abnormal nails," says a learned dermatologist.

Perhaps the only sign of the condition will be a number of tiny depressions in one, several, or all of the nails of the fingers and toes. Transverse ridges or furrows are also suspicious.

Contrary to the pyogenic infection mentioned above there may be no pain or redness of the nail bed. The parts are generally very dry. The nails become powdery and lose their healthy translucency and brilliancy.

Treatment is by no means simple. The patient should be warned not to become discouraged. It often takes several courses of treatment lasting over a year or two.

During treatment gloves should be worn. They protect the nail and keep the medicines which are applied in place and in action.

Soaking the fingers in hot soap suds and then soaking them in some antiseptic like a moderately strong potassium permanganate solution, then dipping them in oxalic acid solution to prevent straining, and coating the nails with full strength Whitfield ointment, is a method that is highly recommended. It may have to be kept up for some time before results begin to appear.

X-ray, infra-red and ultra violet radiation are perhaps the best of all treatments.

In extremely severe cases, which are intractable to all methods of treatment, permanent destruction of the nail by surgical removal can be practiced. "A nailless finger is often preferable to permanent onychomycosis," says the same dermatological authority quoted above.

One definite danger of permanent infection of the nails with ringworm is that it will be carried by the fingers to all parts of the body. It is astonishing in how many forms this disease will appear, and how persistent it is. It bids fair to be the great American disease.

Girl Would Console Man

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR MISS LEE: I am in love with a married man who has been married for five years and has one child, the cutest little boy I have ever seen."

"Now, Miss Lee, when we went to school together this man was a happy go lucky, never seemed to worry over anything, and now that I have seen him again, my heart goes out to him. His brown eyes, that always had a twinkle for everyone, have turned to sadness."

"Now, Miss Lee, do you think it proper if I called him up? I've just got to know whether he still is married. Everyone I know says that his wife and he have parted. I love this boy dearly."

Better not, Evelyn. The ways are two sides to every question, you know. This boy's wife may not entirely be to blame for their unhappiness, and maybe they will become reconciled. It would be much better so on account of the little boy.

The fact that you love him is all the more reason why you should keep strictly out of his affairs. If you truly love him you will want him to be happy, and he will probably be happiest getting his wife, baby and home back.

If you must know whether he is living with his wife or not, make inquiries of others, but not of him. If he should be divorced, and you get the chance, then is your opportunity to try to win him.

SISTER SUE: I am so glad you enjoy reading the column. As to your problem, if you approve of the young man your sister is engaged to, there would be no harm in them marrying secretly or openly, for the matter of that, if they can't wait. I don't think it is obligatory to have the marriage license published. The names will be withheld if requested. Your sister is fortunate to have such a fine big sister.

HAROLD: Yes, we all have our love problems, don't we? It may be that you are too good to this girl. Why not make her wait for an answer to her next letter? She may appreciate it more when it does come. Some folks never appreciate that which comes easily.

WORRIED: I don't believe I'd spend much time thinking of a young man who never writes of me, or asks you for dates when he is at home. Have a good time and don't be "worried."

BROWN EYES: I'm afraid I couldn't tell you what is the matter without seeing you. I know a girl who answers your description of yourself—she's pretty, very intelligent, and with a very friendly disposition. Yet boys seldom ask her for dates.

One boy whom I know very well, so well that he feels free to confide in me, told me that he utterly lacks charm. He took her out and went home disgusted. Her walk was slovenly, he said, her posture was bad, her clothes, while good, did not look well because she carried herself so badly. He felt no pride in being seen with her. A chap must be proud of the girl he dates. In addition, she giggles at sentimental scenes in shows, when she should have a "tear in her eye." This latter is doubtless a defense measure on her part, but few boys would understand that.

Now none of this may apply to you, but check things over. Are you embarrassed in the presence of boys, or do you take their attentions so much to heart that you appear indifferent to hide it? If you can be unaffectedly interested and sympathetic without being gushing, you will have solved the problem. Nothing scares a boy like a girl who is out to "get her man," but they do want a sympathetic girl who enjoys their company and is interested in their problems.

H. L.: A self-addressed, stamped envelope is necessary for a per-sonal reply.

Counseled To Use Camomile Rinse

By GLADYS GLAD

"DEAR MISS GLAD: Some time ago you wrote a series of columns on hair rinses, and in one of the articles you described a rinse of camomile tea and something else that I can't recall, for blonde hair. I'd like to try this rinse, and would be grateful if you'd tell me how to prepare it."

DOTY.
To prepare the rinse that you are referring to, you place a handful of camomile flower in a pint of water, and permit it to come to a boil. Then you strain the mixture through a fine-mesh cloth, and permit the resultant solution to cool somewhat. To enhance the lightening properties of this rinse you then add a tablespoon of peroxide to it. And you use the solution as the last rinse after you have shampooed your hair.

"Dear Miss Glad, I have just obtained a copy of your excellent booklet on 'The New Figure,' as I wish to reduce my weight. I'm very much encouraged, you see, because my sister followed the reducing course in your booklet, and lost 32 pounds, all told. However, I'm wondering whether that preliminary three-day liquid diet is very important, or whether I could omit it. Would you advise me, please?"

"ALICE."
That preliminary three-day liquid diet is indeed important, and although you can, if you wish, omit it, I would not advise you to do so. It is not the two or three-pound weight loss that usually results that is important. The value of this dieting lies in the stomach shrinkage to normal that ensues, and the removal of a great deal of waste material from the body. The alimentary canal becomes completely cleansed in preparation for the new diet system. And after the three days of almost complete abstinence from solid foods, too, the viands that you would have refused ordinarily will seem quite delectable to you.

"Dear Miss Glad: I'd love to have lovely hands, but it seems I'm just out of luck. Because my hands are very thin, and as a result, the knuckles seem so large and ugly. Is there any way in which I can make my knuckles smaller? Or is there anything at all that I can do to shape my hands more pleasingly?"

"MRS. TATE."
It isn't, I regret to say, possible to decrease the size of the knuckles or joints of the fingers. But by building up the rest of the hands, the joints will appear smaller, and will not be so prominent. Warm cocoa butter is used for fattening purposes, and you should massage your hands nightly with it. Hand exercises will also help to build up and shape the hands, and the following are especially effective:

Extend the arms forward. Then flap the hands briskly from the wrists.

Using the left hand, push the fingers of the right hand as far back as you can. Repeat, pushing the fingers of the left hand back.

For those who don't think (as many do) that comparisons are odious, it may be said that comparative scores point to an easy victory for Ross Twp. cagers when the defending county Class B champs engage their friendliest rival, Cedarville High, on the latter's floor January 28.

What other conclusion is to be reached when it is considered Selma High defeated Cedarville, 22 to 13 on the Selma floor Saturday night, and Ross overwhelmed this same Selma quintet, 51 to 21 on the Ross floor Tuesday night. You might deduct a few points, of course, to allow for the disadvantage of playing floors. Ross winning on its own floor, and Cedarville losing at Selma.

But comparative scores mean little when Ross and Cedarville count teams mingle and it would not be surprising if the January 28 contest, sure to be witnessed by a large crowd, would be a close affair.

Emanuel Good, Osborn, who, we feel, has been neglecting this department a wee bit of late, is now back in good standing with us again, thanks to a letter in which he predicts a comeback for Hack Wilson, former home run champion for the Chicago Cubs, during the 1932 season. Emanuel's observations follow:

"Although I was one of the few to predict Hack Wilson's dethronement as major league home run king before the start of the 1931 pennant races, I am now going to say that Hack is going to come bounding back into the 1932 baseball spotlight with a bang.

"Not that I think Mr. Wilson is going to regain his home run crown, not hardly with Ruth, Gehrig and Klein in the picture. However, when the National League home run totals are given out at the end of the 1932 season, Hack shouldn't be more than seven four-base hits back of Klein.

"If the St. Louis Cardinals turn Wilson over to Brooklyn and the National League race narrows down to these two clubs, Hack's home run dynamite is liable to blow up the pennant hopes of the Red Birds.

"However, at the moment, the Giants seem to be the biggest threat to upset the Cards this coming baseball season."

Anent (one of our favorite words) the departure of Wilson from the Cubs, it is reported that Manager Rogers Hornsby is growing gray hairs worrying about that outfielder of his on the Chicago team. He is sure of his infield positions, but there are three garden posts to be filled and only one player is assured of a job. He is Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler, who enjoyed one of his big seasons in 1931. Left and center fields are wide open, with Ross Stephenson nearing the end of his career and Hack Wilson gone to the Cardinals.

THREE LEAGUE GAMES BOOKED FOR DISPOSAL FRIDAY NIGHT

Process of weeding out the weakest teams in the Miami Valley League will be continued Friday night with three contests down for decisions.

In a game that will make or break Xenia Central's championship prospects, the Buccaneers will encounter the league-leading Miami Valley quintet on the Burger floor. With victories over Greenville and Piqua and still unbeaten, Miami Valley is already envisioning a possible league title.

Other games on the league program Friday evening will find Greenville visiting Piqua and Sidney going to Troy, while Dayton Fairview is idle.

The Sidney-Troy contest looms as a headliner attraction. Those who don't think (as many do) that comparisons are odious, it may be said that comparative scores point to an easy victory for Ross Twp. cagers when the defending county Class B champs engage their friendlier rival, Cedarville High, on the latter's floor January 28.

What other conclusion is to be reached when it is considered Selma High defeated Cedarville, 22 to 13 on the Selma floor Saturday night, and Ross overcame this same Selma quintet, 51 to 21 on the Ross floor Tuesday night. You might deduct a few points, of course, to allow for the disadvantage of playing floors. Ross winning on its own floor, and Cedarville losing at Selma.

But comparative scores mean little when Ross and Cedarville court teams mingle and it would not be surprising if the January 28 contest, sure to be witnessed by a large crowd, would be a close affair.

Emanuel Good, Osborn, who, we feel, has been neglecting this department a wee bit of late, is now back in good standing with us again, thanks to a letter in which he predicts a comeback for Hack Wilson, former home run merchant for the Chicago Cubs, during the 1932 season. Emanuel's observations follow:

"Although I was one of the few to predict Hack Wilson's dethronement as major league home run king before the start of the 1931 pennant races, I am now going to say that Hack is going to come bounding back into the 1932 baseball spotlight with a bang.

"Not that I think Mr. Wilson is going to regain his home run crown, not hardly with Ruth, Gehrig and Klein in the picture. However, when the National League home run totals are given out at the end of the 1932 season, Hack shouldn't be more than seven or eight hits back of Klein.

"If the St. Louis Cardinals turn Wilson over to Brooklyn and the National League race narrows down to these two clubs, Hack's home run dynamite is liable to blow up the pennant hopes of the Red Birds.

"However, at the moment, the Giants seem to be the biggest threat to upset the Cards this coming baseball season."

Anent (one of our favorite words) the departure of Wilson from the Cubs, it is reported that Manager Rogers Hornsby is growing gray hairs worrying about that outfield of his on the Chicago team. He is sure of his infield positions, but there are three garden posts to be filled and only one player is assured of a job. He is Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler, who enjoyed one of his big seasons in 1931. Left and center fields are wide open, with Ross Stephenson nearing the end of his career and Hack Wilson gone to the Cardinals.

EXPECTED TO PLEAD INSANITY DEFENSE

WARREN, O., Jan. 21.—Indicted on charges of first degree murder for shooting his wife in the lobby of a bank building here, Arch F. Knisely, 42, prominent Warren clubman today was expected to plead not guilty by reason of insanity at his arraignment in common pleas court.

Attorney Robert G. Day, counsel for Knisely, indicated he would ask the court to appoint a special jury board to test Knisely's sanity and that he be committed to the Lima Hospital if he was found insane.

STOLE HIS RIBS

DENVER, Jan. 21.—Earl Martin asked Denver police today to find a prowler who stole six ribs from him. The ribs, removed in a recent operation following an automobile accident, were in a suitcase in Martin's room. They were among his most prized possessions. The thief took the suitcase.

Playing without the services of Byron Laycock, high-scoring center, the O. S. and S. O. Home employees' basketball team beat the Clarksville Independents by one point, 26 to 25, at the Home armory Wednesday night. The employees led at the half, 13 to 11, but were behind by three points with only two minutes left to play when Whitehead sank a long shot and Jay Burnett made the winning basket. The Home quintet will meet the Peerless A. C. of Springfield at the armory next Tuesday night.

Piqua's prospects of putting up a stiff game against the rangy Greenville quintet received a severe jolt when it became known that because of an injury, Bob Carder, star Indian center, may not be able to play against Greenville.

With thirty seconds left to play in a game with St. Marys Saturday night, Carder figured in a collision with Bob Purdy, Piqua guard, and Carder emerged with a deep gash over one eye that required two stitches to close.

TICKETS READY FOR. INGALLS DINNER AT TEMPLE ON TUESDAY

Tickets are now on sale at seventy-five cents each for the community banquet to be tendered David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of navy for aviation, at Masonic Temple here Tuesday evening.

The dinner is being jointly sponsored by the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and Foody Post, American Legion and tickets are in the hands of members of the two luncheon clubs and several Legionnaires.

Because of the limited space in the dining room, only 250 tickets have been printed and it is indicated that the entire amount will be disposed of several days before the date of the dinner.

Ingalls is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio, but his address will be non-political in nature. He will fly here Tuesday from Akron where he is scheduled for a luncheon engagement at noon, but may land his plane at Springfield and come to Xenia by auto.

Jacob Kany is in charge of preparations for the dinner, which is scheduled for 6:30 p. m.

STARS OF RADIOLAND

Dolores Reade

Those who stay up late, waiting to dial an entertaining radio program, feel compensated if they tune in on Dolores Reade, whose melancholy ballads are a part of the tri-weekly broadcasts by George Olsen and his orchestra. Miss Reade investigated Broadway night club singing after a whirl in some of Ziegfeld's shows and found she liked it. Now she goes on the air, too.

How to Reduce Colds and Their Costs This Winter

One of Family's Biggest Problems Met With Vick "Control-of-Colds" Plan

Actual Test of the Plan is Offered By Xenia Druggists On a Trial Guarantee.

To most families this winter, the high costs of colds are an extra burden. Loss of time, health and money are involved. To reduce the drain of this burdensome family "Colds-Tax" is the purpose of the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds"—to lessen their number, severity and duration.

Plan Follows New Discovery

The Vick Plan is made possible with Vick Nose & Throat Drops. Based on a new idea for "preventing" colds, this new Vick discovery is companion to Vicks VapoRub, the modern way of "treating" colds. Each aids and supplements the other for better "Control-of-Colds."

Here, briefly is the Vick plan:

1.—Before a Cold Starts

Watch yourself whenever you have been exposed to anything that you know is apt to give you a cold, such as—

Contact with others having fresh colds—crows, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on a Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking, which reduces body resistance—after a hard day when you are over tired.

Then—if you feel that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passage, Nature's usual signal that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose

Drops at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Repeat every hour or so if needed. This will prevent many colds by stopping them before they get beyond the nose and throat—where most colds start.

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub (now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer). Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long.

If the air-passages are badly clogged with mucus, melt some VapoRub in a bowl or hot water and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vick Cough Drop—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

During the day—any time, any place—use Vick Nose Drops every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing", which so often unsettles digestion—especially of children.

Offer By Local Druggists

Your druggist is offering Vicks Nose Drops and Vicks VapoRub on the following trial guarantee: Use these preparations together as directed in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds." Unless you are delighted with results, your money will be refunded.—Adv.

REPRESENTATIVE DYER OF ST. LOUIS was baptized Leonidas Carstarphen.

Leonidas Carstarphen Dyer! It takes up half the width of a page in the Congressional Directory.

The representative is dignified in proportion to the resonance of his name.

He is a descendant of a distinguished line.

The first of his ancestors to come to America settled in Maryland in the Seventeenth century, which is to say at least 330 and some odd years ago. His great-grandfather was a Revolutionary officer.

In short, in so far as the United States has an aristocracy, Representative Dyer belongs to it.

He does not consider that light beer should be prohibited.

Beer up to a 4 per cent alcoholic content he regards as light. One-half of 1 per cent he says is too light to be any good, but he thinks 4 per cent about right. Session after session, for a long time, he has had a bill pending in congress to legalize 4 per cent beer.

He is a Republican.

TICKETS READY FOR INGALLS DINNER AT TEMPLE ON TUESDAY

Tickets are now on sale at seventy-five cents each for the community banquet to be tendered David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of navy for aviation, at Masonic Temple here Tuesday evening.

The dinner is being jointly sponsored by the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and Foody Post, American Legion and tickets are in the hands of members of the two luncheon clubs and several Legionnaires.

Because of the limited space in the dining room, only 250 tickets have been printed and it is indicated that the entire amount will be disposed of several days before the date of the dinner.

Ingalls is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio, but his address will be non-political in nature. He will fly here Tuesday from Akron where he is scheduled for a luncheon engagement at noon, but may land his plane at Springfield and come to Xenia by auto.

Jacob Kany is in charge of preparations for the dinner, which is scheduled for 6:30 p. m.

HAMMONTREE WILL CONDUCT MUSIC FOR BIBLE CRUISE SOON

Homer Hammontree, songleader for the "Crusade of Christ" campaign to be launched by the Laymen's Evangelistic Association Sunday evening at the Tabernacle, E. Third St., is to have a unique distinction this summer. He has been invited to direct the music for the first Bible cruise from New York to Bermuda thence to Newfoundland and back to New York.

Dr. Donald Grey Barnhouse, who is heard over station WKRC, Cincinnati, every Sunday, will lead the cruise which will be made up of 800 people. Mr. Hammontree's engagement in Xenia is only one of many he will fill this year and his presence here is causing considerable comment, it is said. He is a soloist of rare charm, it is said, and he has studied with teachers in Chicago and New York.

An effort is being made to organize a chorus of 100 voices. Herman W. Bavey, chairman of the music committee, is communicating with choir leaders and young people's workers in the city in an effort to organize the choir by Sunday evening. "Revival Gems," the evangelistic hymn book used at the noonday theater meetings, will be used at the services.

Evangelist Ralph E. Stewart, Atlanta, Ga., who will preach and direct the activities of the crusade, will visit pastors in Greene County Thursday and Friday in an effort to get them and their congregations to cooperate in the services. Additional lights have been added in the Tabernacle and a speakers' platform has been erected. Determination Versus Suavity

An interesting photo study, made during a session of investigations which the Senate Committee is conducting into the sale of foreign bonds in the United States, shows in sharp contrast the determined mien of Senator Hiram Johnson (right) of California and the suavity of Victor Schoepferle, vice-president of the National City Company, who was under interrogation. The banker admitted during the course of the two-hour examination that his company's loan to Colombia was made about the same time that the Colombia Government restored an oil concession in which a Mellon-owned oil company is interested. Schoepferle testified that the State Department had called his objections to making the loans "technicalities."

SENATE CONSIDERS RELIEF FUNDS

Social workers from New York and Chicago have been presenting statistics on funds needed for unemployment relief throughout the nation to a senate sub-committee in Washington, maintaining that there are insufficient funds in private, city and state sources to carry the load through the winter. An estimated $600,000,000 is needed, they declare. Two bills are before the committee, one to appropriate $375,000,000 and the other $250,000,000. Senator Robert La Follette, Jr., Wisconsin, is chairman of the committee, and its other members are Senators Bronson M. Cutting, of New Mexico; Henry D. XENIAN WRITES OF INTERESTING TRIP VIA PANAMA CANAL

Interesting experiences of his boat trip from New York to Los Angeles, via the Panama Canal, were contained in a letter written by W. R. Torrence to O. E. Bales, W. Third St., this week.

Mr. Torrence was the only passenger on the boat for the trip and ate in the captain's private dining room with the captain, chief engineer and the first mate, he writes. An interesting experience that occurred the last night the boat was out is described by Mr. Torrence as follows: "The captain and I were in the chief engineer's office listening to the radio about 8 p. m. when there was what seemed to me quite an explosion. All the lights went out. The captain and the chief engineer left on a run. The boat was about a hundred miles from shore. In about twenty minutes the lights came on again and I found that the large dynamo that handles the ship's electricity had blown. About an hour later after I had retired I was awakened by a whistle blowing about every minute and so I thought there was more trouble. I found it was a dense fog and I could not see beyond the ship's side. The captain said it was the worst fog he had ever run into."

In describing the Panama canal Mr. Torrence said: "They are working on the canal which does not follow its old route. Boats only go through the canal in daytime and have a regular schedule for meeting other boats and are not allowed to exceed a certain speed limit. It took eight hours to go about fifty miles and we were further east when we pulled out on the Pacific side than when we entered on the Atlantic side."

Mr. Torrence is now registered at Hotel Hayward, Los Angeles and expects to spend several months in the West.

OLD BOOK IF DISCOVERED

Almanac Issued In 1807 Now In Possession Of Carl Brown Of Xenia

An almanac, its pages yellowed with age, dating back more than 125 years, is an interesting possession of Carl Brown, 14 California St., this city. The book formerly belonged to his great-grandmother.

The old year book was published in Pittsburgh in the early part of the nineteenth century and contained information concerning Ohio, Virginia and Kentucky. The book contains an almanac similar to almanacs of today, giving the dates, aspects and observations of days, the time of the rising and setting of the sun and the rising and setting of the moon and other such data.

It contains lists of civil, ju-diary and military officers of Ohio, Kentucky and Virginia for the various years and it is interesting to note that in 1807, Edward Tiffin was governor of Ohio; William Creighton was secretary of state; Thomas Gibson, auditor and William McFarland, treasurer. John Paul was clerk of common pleas court of Greene County in 1807, the magazine almanac shows. The chief towns listed in Ohio in 1807 were Cincinnati, Marietta, Chillicothe, Steubenville, Zanesville, Columbus, Dayton, Springfield, Waynesville, Deerfield, Franklin, Greenville, Newark, St. Clairsville and a number of small places in the vicinity of Steubenville.

The name of Xenia appears in the almanac in connection with lists of roads leading from one important city to another and Xenia is listed on the route from Cincinnati to Urbana.

The almanac is written in an old-style English and the letter "f" is used in place of "s" as the following excerpt on the history of Cincinnati shows: "The first settlers of the Miami country came in December, 1788, and soon afterward fort Washington was built and the town of Cincinnati (which was called Lofantville for a year or two) was laid off. Cincinnati if the feat of justice for Hamilton County, and was formerly the metropolis of the North Western Territory—situate on the Ohio river, opposite the mouth of the Licking. . . ."

FRIGIDAIRE HOPES TO SURPASS 1931

"Frigidaire's advertising and promotional program for 1932 will be directed toward surpassing 1931 when it built and shipped 35 per cent more house-hold models than during the preceding year," E. B. Biechler, president and general manager of Frigidaire Corporation, Dayton announces.

"To attain this still larger volume we are increasing the number and type of our sales outlets and introducing new merchandising methods. Our line has been expanded to meet wider market requirements.

"The economies and conveniences of electric refrigeration equipment constitute a popular and logical buying urge in both the household and commercial fields. Consequently our organization views the outlook with confidence, believing that the coming twelve months will witness a continuance of the encouraging and increasing demand for its products.

"We are expecting that when Frigidaire's net results of 1932 are tabulated they will reflect improvement over 1931."

STOLEN AUTO FOUND NORTH OF CLIFTON

Recovery of a used car which Carl M. Anderson, of the Anderson Rent-A-Car agency, reported had been stolen late Tuesday afternoon by a stranger who posed as a prospective buyer, is announced by Sheriff John Baughn.

The auto, a Chevrolet sedan, 1929 model, upon which Anderson placed a sales value of $300, was found abandoned late Wednesday afternoon on the old Clifton Pike, a mile north of Clifton. The machine was discovered about two miles from the spot where Anderson said he and his brother-in-law, William O'Connor, Springfield, a salesman, were demonstrating the auto to the customer, a man who gave his name as Clark. The "customer" had driven away in the auto.

in Michigan for a number of years. Burial was made in Michigan.

An explosion which damaged the building and shattered window lights on the opposite side of the street occurred at the pump house on the Magnetic grounds at about 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. The only information obtainable was furnished by Mrs. Haines, who lives on the same lot on which the pump house is located. She stated that a coal stove was in operation on the interior of the building. It is the general supposition that a great quantity of gas was generated both on the inside and outside of the stove. The stove was blown to pieces.

XENIAN WRITES OF INTERESTING TRIP VIA PANAMA CANAL

Interesting experiences of his boat trip from New York to Los Angeles, via the Panama Canal, were contained in a letter written by W. R. Torrence to O. E. Bales, W. Third St., this week.

Mr. Torrence was the only passenger on the boat for the trip and ate in the captain's private dining room with the captain, chief engineer and the first mate, he writes.

An interesting experience that occurred the last night the boat was out is described by Mr. Torrence as follows: "The captain and I were in the chief engineer's office listening to the radio about 8 p. m. when there was what seemed to me quite an explosion. All the lights went out. The captain and the chief engineer left on a run. The boat was about a hundred miles from shore. In about twenty minutes the lights came on again and I found that the large dynamo that handles the ship's electricity had blown. About an hour later after I had retired I was awakened by a whistle blowing about every minute and so I thought there was more trouble. I found it was a dense fog and I could not see beyond the ship's side. The captain said it was the worst fog he had ever run into."

In describing the Panama canal Mr. Torrence said: "They are working on the canal which does not follow its old route. Boats only go through the canal in daytime and have a regular schedule for meeting other boats and are not allowed to exceed a certain speed limit. It took eight hours to go about fifty miles and we were further east when we pulled out on the Pacific side than when we entered on the Atlantic side."

Mr. Torrence is now registered at Hotel Hayward, Los Angeles and expects to spend several months in the West.

Hollywood is cheering the comeback of Lloyd Hughes, who hasn't done much of late but is being given a warm welcome at Paramount where he will play in "The Miracle Man." He will be the rich young man who finances the shrine after his sister is cured of a serious illness. W. Lawson Butts played the role in the silent film. Hughes made his first picture fifteen years ago this month and he was popular for a long time as a screen partner of Mary Astor. His last important role was in "Moby Dick."

high society drama. The film will start in February and will be her second and last for Warners. The first was "Bought," a box-office hit.

You may have thought this kind of thing always was faked, but there is a man in Hollywood, Steve Clemente, who has made a living throwing knives at stars. Steve is a Yaqui Indian who once served as a colonel in the army of Pancho Villa. He is unerring with a knife or a hatchet and he loves his work. He fondles a knife as a mother does her baby.

Clemente says Bert Wheeler was the coolest victim at whom he ever tossed a blade. Among stars who owe their lives to his marksmanship are Gary Cooper, Mary Carey, Warren Hymer and numerous others.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. will join the ranks of newspaper reporters for his next Warner Picture, "Love is a Racket," a story by Ryan James which has been applauded so vigorously by O. O. McIntyre. Doug is now playing in "It's Hell to Be Famous," once called "The Bowlful Bowl." He plays a Lindbergh in this picture.

AWARDED JUDGMENT AGAINST FRIENDS; REALTY INVOLVED

A. D. Wenrick, Dayton Pike, has been awarded a note judgment for $12,783.16 in Common Pleas Court in foreclosure proceedings against real estate owned by Mary A. Friend and John M. Friend, who are under long term sentences to separate federal prisons for conspiracy to violate the liquor laws. Foreclosure of real estate was authorized.

The court entry disclosed that a deed from The Greenmont Country Club, Inc., golf club on the Dayton Pike, conveying to Mary Friend a portion of land described in the petition, and which was alleged in a cross petition of the defendants not to have been conveyed to her, has since been delivered to Mrs. Friend. The deed was delivered through her counsel, Brumbaugh and Brumbaugh, Dayton.

Accordingly, the cross petition, which asked damages because of failure to make the conveyance, was dismissed by the court, which ordered a new description of real estate involved in the foreclosure action substituted for the previous description on record.

Sheriff John Baughn also revealed that he had received a court order authorizing the destruction of elaborate gambling equipment seized in a raid six months ago on the bungalow where Mr. and Mrs. Friend resided on the Dayton Pike near the Montgomery County line.

DOG DEAD BEFORE TAG ARRIVES

OWNER of a fox terrier, Oscar Mason, Bowersville, put off as long as possible getting a new 1932 dog license for his pet.

Finally, in order to avoid the extra dollar penalty assessed for delinquency, Mason sent $1.50 to the county auditor's office to pay for the tag Wednesday morning, the last day of grace for dog owners.

An attache in the office promptly mailed him a new license.

Shortly afterward, Mason phoned the auditor's office to say that his dog had been killed by an auto.

But he was too late. Unfortunately, the money he paid for the new license could not be refunded.

So Mason is contemplating his double misfortune. He is out $1.50 for a new license and also is minus one dog. However, he has a new dog tag.

"I want to tell you - that red-blood cells are the very foundation of sturdy health"

— worth knowing:

—Let's pause a moment to give those vital red cells the consideration they deserve. They mean so much for better health and happiness.

If your blood count is low, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning . . . so are pimples, boils and paleness.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today!—the larger size represents a price saving.
